Counsel: No Grounds For Official's Lawsuit Against Critical Resident

By Lisa A. Boudreau

The town's lawyer says there are no grounds to bring suit against a resident who criticizes town officials during public meetings.

Al Daniels' advice came after a heated exchange between School Superintendent Kenneth Seifert and Donald Coleman of 91 High St. at the Aug. 21 School Committee meeting.

Dr. Seifert says he sought legal counsel concerning public official's rights when allegations and personal remarks are made by audience members during public meetings.

"To me it's a question of what kind of rights, as public employees, do we have against the public coming in and saying anything they want and not being held responsible," said Dr. Seifert Monday.

But slander laws affect public officials differently than they do non-public people, Mr. Daniels said.

People in the public eye "are required to take more heat," he said. "It was kind of a cheap thing but not actionable," he added, referring to last month's meeting.

At that meeting the committee was discussing its proposed contract with the Andover Endowment for the Arts for managing the J. Everett Collins Center.

Mr. Coleman asked the committee to suspend AEA until getting a report from the subcommittee appointed to examine the management of the facility.

Mr. Coleman also told the committee he believes the non-profit AEA's chairman, Gerald Cohen, has a proprietary interest in pushing the contract through.

"He (Mr. Cohen) could get financial gain with that," said Mr. Coleman, adding, "I think you should investigate Mr. Seifert's involvement in this handshake deal."

At that point acting Chairman Michael Frishman warned Mr. Coleman about making personal accusations.

Visibly angered and frustrated with the direction of the confrontation, Dr. Seifert attempted to end the discussion.

"I do not want the audience, including those out watching the television, to think that I agree with everything that you said," he said. "You are misinformed. You do not know what you are talking about."

The exchange continued and became personal as

Collins Center Board Approves API Contract

By Lisa A. Boudreau

The Andover Endowment for the Arts has reached a one-year, $106,630 contract with the man they have hired for the past seven years to run the J. Everett Collins Center for the Performing Arts, said AEA Chairman Gerald Cohen on Monday.

Glen Gulezian, owner of Artistic Productions Inc., has in the past received two three-year contract awards from AEA, recently adding up to a $100,000-plus salary for each year. AEA also employs Mr. Gulezian's wife, Paula Mugavero, for approximately $25,000, said Mr. Cohen.

AEA board member Jared Clark, who has surveyed five other performing arts centers and their management and production arrangements, says the money is justified. The latest figure is consistent with other salaries paid for comparable services, the former town manager said.

The School Committee, which is currently investigating AEA's management of the center. The committee appointed a subgroup for the task this spring after receiving complaints from citizens and community groups about lack of accessibility to the 1,200-seat auditorium, high rental fees and what some said was an inflated contract with API.

The group will also make recommendations to the School Committee on its proposed management agreement with AEA. The report and recommendations are due by the first of next month.

Chairman Cohen said the current contract is for one year, rather than three as in the past, because of the pending report. He added that the contract will stand for this year, but "we have to decide by December if we will renew it."

"Because the School Committee is reviewing the AEA mission, we (the directors) didn't think it was appropriate" to award another three-year contract, Mr. Cohen said. "We feel it is prudent to go one year at a time."

Historians To Kick Off New Lunch Series

By Barbara Thibault

"Andover History for Students" is the topic of the Andover Historical Society's lunchtime program Thursday, Sept. 21, at noon. Laura Edge, a school program interpreter and society board member, will give a slide presentation and share her research on introducing local landmarks to children.

Education is synonymous with the Andover Historical Society. The exhibits, lectures, pamphlets and special events from the society's earliest years contributed to its pursuit of preserving local history and enriching the understanding of life in Andover.

Historical tours began in one rented room (quickly expanding to two) and finally, in 1929, operated in the Amos Blanchard House and Barn. Caroline Underhill, the first curator, reported "an increased interest in the society's collections and home shown by visiting groups from the schools."

In 1947 a short history of Andover for schoolchildren was recommended, as were programs such as "the reading of winning papers in contests on Andover history, a maypole dance, old-fashioned costumes and a short notice to encourage children to join the society."

Increased priority on program enrichment and public outreach continued. Expanded facilities with the gallery spaces and a new library wing meant increased activities.

Today, there are slide tape shows, walking tours and traveling exhibits in addition to the annual program calendar of events. Students participate in such programs as "Andover at work in the 1820s" and family history and photo searches.

The September lunchtime program sets the scene for the arrival of fifth-graders in October.

A group of Andover students around 1890 aren't much happier to be back in school than their modern-day counterparts. The picture was taken by Charles H. Newman.

See a difference between these two pictures? A potential killer was living in the left until PELICAN ENVIRONMENTAL CORPORATION made a house call.

Radon, a tasteless, odorless, colorless radioactive gas is making itself right at home in one out of every four properties in Massachusetts. Legislators are not only calling for mandatory radon testing, but, by 1991, they're hoping no property will be bought or sold without the test results made known to the buyer. But there's something PELICAN can do about it right now.

Through state-of-the-art technology, PELICAN'S trained specialists can reduce the levels of radon in your home quickly and effectively. In less than one week, your home will look, feel and sound much like it did. With one exception. Your unwanted houseguest will be on its way out.

If yours is the home on the left, move to the right with Massachusetts' most experienced radon mitigation specialists. Now what you can't see can't hurt you.

Recyclers To Bring Glass, Plastics To West Middle Lot

By Virginia Cole

Glass and plastics will be picked up at the West Middle School parking lot on Saturday, Sept. 16, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The place has been changed to West Middle School because of other activities in The Park that day.

If you have missed some glass and plastic collections, now is the time to clean out and clean up. Glass does not burn in the incinerator and the weight adds to the cost of trash disposal for the town. All three colors of glass are now accepted—green for wine bottles, brown for beer and clear for food containers such as mayonnaise jars, apple juice bottles and containers for canned fruit and all the condiments: ketchup, mustard, pickles. Rinse out all glass.

Plastic is probably the most important material to keep out of the incinerator. There is a use for recycled plastic, and Andover's collection contractor has found a place to sell it. The chemicals then do not go up the smoke stack to pollute the air or into the ash pit to pollute some landfill.

Separate plastics. Milk, water and juice jugs can be crushed and put together. Clear plastic containers and plastic foam trays that meat and vegetables come in are acceptable. Remove the covering materials and rinse off the trays.

Paper collection continues as usual every other week at curbside on trash collection day. If you have lost the collection calendar, a new one can be picked up at the town office building.

Some residents have been bringing recyclables home from summer vacation places. Getting them out of the waste stream wherever you are is important. Some have relaxed into lazy summer habits, but this is fall, so get back into the recycling habit. Nothing changed while you were away. The environment didn't improve and you still need to do your bit. Paper, glass and plastics can be recycled in Andover.

Do any of you want a composting site for the leaves that are about to fall? Andover should and could provide this if people make it known that it is a service they want and will use. Do you know your selectmen's names: Chairman Gail Ralston, Gerald Silverman, Charles Weston, William Downs and James Baremborn. Letters will reach them if sent to town hall.

Cadet Completes Air Force Training Camp

Cadet Erik A. Day has completed a U.S. Air Force ROTC field training encampment at Dover Air Force Base in Delaware.

The summer curriculum consists of orientation on jet aircraft, career opportunities, human relations education and equal opportunity training. Physical fitness and survival training is also emphasized.

The field training is four to six weeks.

Cadet Day is the son of Louise Hart of 11 Heather Drive.

Hazards Of The Season

Health Officials Warn Against Mosquitoes, And Excessive Use Of Products To Repell Them

Though the insect population is waning with the season, you still need protection from mosquitoes.

State Public Health Commissioner Deborah Prothrow-Stith advised residents of eastern Massachusetts to take precautions to protect themselves and their children from mosquitoes in an effort to prevent cases of eastern (equine) encephalitis.

EE is caused by a virus carried by wild birds that live in freshwater swamp areas and the female of one species of swamp-breeding mosquito. In most years, the virus is contained in these birds and mosquitoes, but occasionally there is a spillover of the virus into other mosquitoes known to bite humans.

The first instance of EE virus this year has been detected by the State Laboratory Institute in the non-human biting Culiseta melanura mosquitoes, Dr. Prothrow-Stith said. "These mosquitoes were trapped in southeastern Massachusetts at a sampling site in Halifax. There is no evidence of virus activity in other trapping locations at this time and no human cases have been found."

The commissioner added that there has not been a human case of eastern encephalitis in Massachusetts since 1984.

EE is an annual concern in the southeastern part of the state around the Hockomock and Pine swamps of the Taunton River basin.

But people in and around any freshwater swamp areas should wear clothing with long sleeves and long pants and use mosquito repellents beginning before dusk and into the evening. To keep mosquitoes out of homes, screens should be securely fastened to all doors and windows and insecticides used if mosquitoes are found in the home.

If overnight camping or other substantial outdoor exposure is unavoidable, all personal precautions should be taken and every effort made to use ground-fogging insecticides. It is especially important that infants and young children be protected against mosquitoes, she said.

But the commissioner's office also

Norma Villarreal, left, president of the Mother Connection, hands a $100 check to Peggy Coleman, chairman of Penguin Park, to defray the cost of the proposed playground's upcoming auction. Ms. Villarreal is holding her son, Martin Serna.

Proposed Park Plans Events

Thanks to the generosity of residents, businesses and organizations, Penguin Park, a playground specifically designed for infants to 6-year-olds, is on the way to becoming a reality. Close to $10,000, or one-third of the total required, has been raised as of Sept. 1.

However, with a planned installation date of May 5, 1990, there is still much to do to make the preschoolers' playground a reality on Iceland Road, near Shawsheen Square in Andover. The Penguin Park committee has packed the fall calendar with events for children and adults.

Kenneth Gloss, owner of the Brattle Book Shop in Boston, will talk about old and rare books at the Lawrence Public Library next month.

Book Dealer To Talk About Valued Books

Kenneth Gloss, owner of the Brattle Book Shop in Boston, will speak at the Lawrence Public Library, 51 Lawrence St., on Thursday, Oct. 12, at 7 p.m.

His talk is called "Treasurers in Your Attic: Old and Rare Books."

"New England homes are treasure troves for old and rare books that have increased in value over the year," Mr. Gloss says. "and we're inviting the public to bring any volumes they want to know about to the lecture for a free verbal appraisal."

The Brattle Book Shop is the successor to America's oldest continuously operating antiquarian book store. Mr. Gloss succeeded his late father, George, a well-known figure in Boston and national antiquarian circles.

The younger Gloss has worked in the store since childhood and elected to go into the book business rather than pursue a doctorate in chemistry. He became the sole proprietor upon his father's death several years ago.

Insects

warns against excessive use of deet-containing insect repellents applied to the skin or clothing. They can help prevent mosquito and tick bites, but the Department of Public Health says overuse of deet can cause allergic and toxic effects, especially when used repeatedly in high concentrations. Wearing protective clothing treated with permethrin in addition to using deet on exposed skin provides the greatest protection, department officials said.

The state laboratory will monitor virus activity in mosquitoes and clinical specimens in suspect human cases until the first frost, which marks the end of the mosquito season.

Increasing concern about Lyme disease, which is transmitted by the deer tick, has resulted in a corresponding increase in the use of insect repellents. Repellents are also effective against a variety of other pests. The most commonly used repellents contain the chemical N,N-diethyl-m-toulamide, also known as deet. Deet has been used for more than 30 years by millions of people.

The Environmental Protection Agency has received a small number of reports of adverse reactions to deet, especially in young children after repeated applications of insect repellents.

While doctors have not confirmed deet as the cause of reactions like headache, mood changes, nausea and, in severe cases, muscle spasms, convulsions or unconsciousness, EPA is concerned that some may be sensitive to deet.

Old Books

"I found that books were in my blood and that I would never be really happy if I abandoned the business," he said.

Mr. Gloss is a member of the Antiquarian Booksellers Association of America, the New England Antiquarian Booksellers Association, the Bostonian Society and the Massachusetts and Rhode Island Antiquarian Booksellers. He serves as a member of the advisory board of the U.S.S. Constitution Museum and the advisory committee of the Boston Public Library.

Mr. Gloss will bring examples of books, magazines and ephemera from the store's private collection, such as a 1912 World Series scorecard and examples of old LIFE magazines (he owns the complete set).

"Lawrence played an important role in America's past," Mr. Gloss says, "and I'm sure people have many questions about books and papers dealing with the history of the area."

Mr. Gloss can also give appraisals anytime at his 9 West St. store in Boston.

Treasurer Seeks Owners Of Unclaimed Benefits

The state treasurer's office is attempting to return nearly $1 million to 3,000 Massachusetts residents under the state's unclaimed money law.

Treasurer Robert Q. Crane said the money has been reported to the treasury by insurance companies doing business in Massachusetts. Included are unpaid life insurance benefits, unpaid benefits on health and liability insurance policies, pension checks and customer overpayments.

Under Massachusetts' unclaimed money law, accounts that have been dormant for at least five years are deemed to be abandoned and must be reported to the treasury. The treasury department then tries to locate the rightful owner or legal heirs to return the money.

"Many of these accounts represent the cash value of life insurance policies which the owners do not realize they are entitled to claim," Mr. Crane said. "Once again my office is making every reasonable effort to locate the owners or legal heirs to return these funds to those who are due them."

Mr. Crane says his office is trying to locate the following Andover residents or businesses: Marie C. Carignan, Joseph Leduc, Raymond L. Cox, Susan Ellsey, Christine Donovan, Elsie F. Fairweather, Kenneth B. Keen, Joseph S. Kowalczyk, Joseph P. LaManna, Donald W. Marshall, Medical Funding Services, Elizabeth Milowkdi, Felix A. Orbe, Daniel A. Rorke, Jr. and Philip K. Ryder.

Exchange Program Seeks Students

ASSE International, a non-profit organization that offers academic-year or summer programs to high school students, is looking for 15- to 18-year-olds interested in visiting Scandinavia, Germany, France, Switzerland, Great Britain, Holland, Spain, Italy, Mexico, Australia, New Zealand or Canada (French or English speaking).

Local students interested in learning more about ASE and international opportunities should contact community representative Gail Jamison-Barnes, 3 McKinney Drive, Hudson, N.H. 0351.

A BID FOR DREAMERS

In the days before bedrooms were partitioned off for privacy, bed drapery and canopied beds allowed people to sleep at night without fear of being disturbed or intruded upon. Although sleeping quarters are no longer interconnected, this does not altogether stop the preference for bed-hangings. Not only do they introduce a strong note of style to the bedroom but they allow us to sleep enveloped in a feeling of warmth and protection. The most popular form of bed-hanging is the canopy over a freestanding four-poster bed. This style can be achieved by attaching pelmet to a lightweight frame that can be bolted to the ceiling over the bed. Simply attach floor-length drapery along the entire width of the bedhead, and at each corner. The result is a cozy, dreamy effect that one may only have seen before in storybooks.

If you need assistance in making decisions regarding your bedroom window treatments come to the specialists...the folks at GORHAM'S DECORATING CENTER. You can feel confident our suggestions will always take into account your budget constraints. At GORHAM'S DECORATING CENTER our staff never uses any high pressure tactics so stop by our showroom at 501 Chickering Rd., Rt. 125, 685-4070 and browse around at your leisure. Pike School Start Year With New Program, Teachers

Classes began at the Pike School this week for 400 students from 35 communities in the Greater Merrimack Valley area.

Some 166 students are from Andover and 86 from North Andover.

New this year is a "flex-day" program which gives students at all grade levels an opportunity to participate in activities extending the school day to 6 p.m. There are loosely structured group activities for students in pre-kindergarten through fifth grade. Older students have an option of supervised study or helping with the younger children. Flex-day addresses a need of working parents who want a supervised program for their children until the dinner hour.

Headmaster David A. Frothingham has announced the appointment of 10 new faculty members.

Candace A. Alsop is a third-grade teacher of science, language arts and social studies. A graduate of Southern Methodist University, she taught in Dallas, Texas, and has been a volunteer in the Andover school system for the past several years. Mrs. Alsop served in a kindergarten classroom at Christ Church in Andover and was a substitute at Pike last year.

Daniel Bliss is a fifth-grade teacher of language arts, social studies and math. He will also coach in the upper school. Mr. Bliss is a graduate of the Hill School and Bates College and comes to Pike from the Valley School in Ligonier, Pa.

Susan P. Britt teaches fourth- and fifthgrade language arts and will run the middle school ski program and assist with upper school soccer. She is a graduate of Denison University and has taught at Friends Academy on Long Island and Hilton Head Preparatory School.

Marilee C. Linn, a magna cum laude graduate of Harvard University, is teaching sixth-grade English and eighth-grade history and providing individual language support. She will also be an after-school coach. Ms. Lin has taught at Phillips Academy where her husband is a faculty member.

S.N. Hamdan has joined the faculty as a part-time instructor in chemistry and life science. He holds a degree from American University in Beirut and has done graduate study there and at Boston University. Mr. Hamdan has spent a number of years in the business world and has taught "Upward Bound" secondary school students from Chelsea.

Frederick B. Hollister is teaching seventh- and eighth-grade history and will coach upper school teams. He is a graduate of Kingswood-Oxford School and Bowdoin College and has a master of business administration from Boston University. His work experience has been in marketing with IBM and Smith Associates in Boston and he has been head counselor and director of Trip Program at Lamp Tinnos for a number of years.

Conference To Focus On Learning Disabled

The second New England Joint Conference on Specific Learning Disabilities will be held at Brockton High School Saturday, Oct. 28.

The conference is for parents and professionals alike and features three panels of authorities who will address issues such as attention deficit disorder and the definition of intelligence. Workshops will address research and theory as well as practical issues such as teaching, evaluation, counseling and college options.

The conference also includes a "resource exchange," an opportunity to learn about the schools, resources and services available to learning-disabled individuals, their parents and the professionals who work on their behalf. Experts will be available to answer questions.

The conference fee increases after the Sept. 30 deadline.

Illiteracy is big news these days. And with the start of another school year, it is on everyone's mind.

A Massachusetts survey shows that more than 1 million state residents are illiterate. Nationally, more than 21 million Americans are functionally illiterate. An estimated $200 billion a year is lost in taxes, welfare checks and poor workmanship, said conference organizers.

Andover Students Named Scholarship Semifinalists

Several Andover High School and Phillips Academy students were among the more than 15,000 semifinalists in the 1990 competition for merit scholarships. The scholarships are awarded by the National Merit Scholarship Corp. The nationwide pool of academically talented semifinalists include about half of 1 percent of each state's seniors.

Students from Andover High are Nicole G. Belle Isle, Michael J. Clement, Catherine M. Doherty, Christopher J. Klein, Jonathan W. Owen, Melissa L. Salazar and GianPaolo Starita.

Phillips Academy students are Tony C. Adler, Edward S. Ahn, Zayda G. Anrim, Joseph Y. Bae, Chad T. Barry, Christopher M. Brookfield, Senan Choe, Zachary D. Drench, Burke R. Gibney, Edith G. Gimm, Laura S. Glass, Valerie L. Hamilton, Clinton M. Haris, Simeon J. Hellerkman, F. Ida Hsu, Katherine C. Huibonhoa, Laban P. Jackson, Alfred J. Jollon, David J. King, Timothy P. Kokes, David K. Lee, Lisa M. Mancke, Jonathan G. Murnick, Pamela W. Myers, Marie H. Nam, Simon Y. Park, Anne H. Reese, Luis M. Roth, Colleen M. Ryan, Elizabeth H. Ryan, Hakim K. Said, Seth B. Schiesel, Karen A. Schweickart, Ralph H. Scott, Margaret E. Smith, Shayne M. Spalten, Heather L. Sullivan, Sharon S. Tentarelli, Adam L. Wipship, Michael D. Wong and Nicolette S.A. Zarday.

More than 1 million students in 19,000 U.S. high schools entered the 1990 Merit program as juniors by taking the 1988

PSAT/NMSQT, which served as an initial screen of entrants. Those designated semifinalists in each state are the top scorers who must advance to the finalist level in order to be considered for scholarships.

To qualify as finalist, semifinalists must have outstanding academic records, be endorsed and recommended by their school principals, confirm their PSAT/NMSQT performance on the SAT and complete an application that includes detailed information about their scholastic and extracurricular accomplishments.

About 90 percent of the semifinalists are expected to become finalists, and more than 6,000 of these students will be awarded merit scholarships worth approximately $123 million. Scholarship winners will be finalists judged to have the strongest credentials and greatest potential for future success. The process of selecting scholars takes into account finalists' academic course load and difficulty level as well as grades earned, test scores, demonstrated leadership and contributions to the school and community, plans and goals and recommendations written by their school officials.

Three types of merit scholarship will be awarded, supported by some 600 sponsor organizations and institutions and by the organization's own funds. Every finalist will have a chance to win one of 1,800 National Merit $2,000 scholarships that are awarded on a state representational basis.

Scholarships

Students don't have to be named all state athletes to qualify for the more than 100,000 collegiate athletic scholarships available each year to male and female high school and junior college student athletes. A new publication with forms, sample letters and tables of actual information is available to take students step by step through the process of getting an athletic scholarship.

For details, send a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope to The National Sports Foundation, 612A Willow Drive, P.O. Box 940, Oakhurst, N.J. 07755.

Meeting

The Merrimack Valley chapter of the Embroiderers Guild of America will meet Tuesday, Sept. 19, at 7 p.m. in the function room at the Patten Green Condominium.

CORRECTION

The Andover-North Andover registration for new GIRL SCOUTS will be held at 6:30 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 18, at the North Andover High School — not the Middle School, as previously reported.

SAT Class

Reading comprehension, the most troublesome part of the test, is a major focus of instruction. Intensive vocabulary development will also be featured. Students will become proficient with techniques proven effective for solving the analogy and sentence completion items.

Participants will put these strategies to use as they take SATs used in previous years. Individuals will develop their own test-taking style as they perfect SAT skills. When to guess and how to score the SAT are a few of the questions that will be answered.

Many of the verbal strategies presented are applicable to the math portion of the SAT. Total gains of up to 150 points may be realized, said Nancy Larue, Y's senior program director.

Roberta Wolman has been successfully preparing students for the SAT for more than 13 years. She is a full-time reading and learning disabilities specialist in Lexington.

For further information and to register, contact the Y.

Native Fruits Ease Summer's End

Perk up on these Indian summer days with plump, native raspberries and peaches. Look for these and other local produce at farmers' markets, roadside farmstands and local supermarkets.

"The fall raspberry crop looks good even though we had too much rain this summer," says Bill Hamilton, owner of Hamilton Orchards, in New Salem. Picking should continue until the middle of October.

"Raspberries that are harvested in the late summer season are from bushes whose branches were cut in early spring."

For a listing of raspberry and peach "pick-your-own" farms in the Bay State, send a self-addressed stamped business-size envelope to the Massachusetts Department of Food and Agriculture, 100 Cambridge St., Boston 02202.

One cup of raspberries provides 40 percent of the daily Vitamin C allowance and only 100 calories.

"The peach-picking season is going well and will continue through late September," says Wilma Hoxie, co-owner of Quonquot Farm in Whately. "There are many people picking their own this year. The good weather earlier in the season, combined with the rain later on, has produced a good crop."

Freestone and clingstone are the principal types of peaches. As the name suggests, the freestone peach's flesh easily separates from the seed. This is the most popular peach for general home use. The clingstone peach is used chiefly in canning or commercial products because, even though the fruit 'clings to the seed,' it tends to hold its shape better. Both types include varieties that have white flesh and those with yellow flesh.

It is important to store peaches in the refrigerator, since they do not store well. If peaches are not fully ripened, store at room temperature until the flesh begins to soften, then refrigerate.

Select peaches that are fairly firm, but slightly soft to the touch. The skin color between the rosy red areas should be yellow or at least creamy and not distinctly green, as immature peaches will not ripen properly.

Quilts On Display

African-American quilts, just beginning to emerge as a recognizable folk art group, make up the colorful exhibition "Who'd a Thought it" at the New England Quilt Museum, 256 Market St., Lowell, from Sept. 20 to Nov. 5.

Special events will include quilting demonstrations, slide shows and workshops by fiber artists, storytelling sessions and scholarly presentations. All special events are at no charge beyond the regular price of museum admission. Beatriz Grayson of Winchester is the local curator of the exhibit.

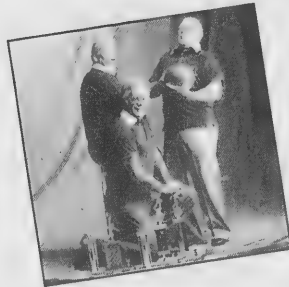

Dr. Rosalind R. Jeffries, art historian from the faculty of the School of Visual Arts in New York City, will give the keynote address on Saturday, Oct. 28, at 3 p.m. The way the fundamentals of African thinking reappear in African-American arts will be the subject of this slide presentation.

Napoleon Jones-Henderson of Roxbury will lead a workshop in fiber artistry and quilt-making on Saturday, Oct. 14, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Reservations can be made by calling the museum.

A selection of quilts demonstrates the inventiveness of the African-American quiltmaker.

These are not the so-called "slave quilts" made for white families, but quilts African-American women (and men) made for their own homes, "Ms. Grayson said. "They are colorful, exuberant and quite different in style from the often sedate applique and patchwork done for others," she added.

Cable Program Explains Household Hazardous Waste

Hazardous waste is something we tend to regard as something that comes from nuclear power plants or chemical factories. But did you know that you probably have some right under your sink—or in your garage?

Andover is sponsoring a household hazardous waste collection day Saturday, Sept. 23, to help alleviate problems caused by the careless disposal of hazardous waste. To know what items in the home are "hazardous," watch Beginning at Home: Tackling Household Hazardous Waste, a half-hour program produced by the League of Women Voters, on local access cable channel 11.

Other health-related offerings on channel 11 are Creating a Healthy Environment, focusing on the Muscular Dystrophy Association; Your Health Matters, looking at the advances in emergency medicine; and Home and Health Report, examining hypertension, nail care and even how board games are created.

The station will air a new program, AIDS and Adolescents: A Frank Discussion, produced by the Massachusetts Department of Public Health. The one-hour program has received excellent reviews. Repeated showings of the discussion will begin on Thursday.

Also on the topic of AIDS, channel 11's regular series Between Takes will feature a documentary called "People Like Us," interviews with AIDS patients. Young filmmakers Frank Litardo and Rick Conca take a closer look at how AIDS affects the American dream.

West Parish To Host Choral Workshops

The American Guild of Organists' Merrimack Valley chapter and the West Parish Singing Society will sponsor two intensive workshops Saturday, Sept. 30, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The subject of the first, led by John Curtis, director of music at First Congregational Church in Reading, will be vocal technique for the amateur singer. The second, led by Marie Stoltz, founder and director of the New England Treble Chorus, will focus on techniques to teach children how to sing. Both events will be held at West Parish Church, Reservation Road and Route 133.

Mr. Curtis will begin the morning with a session of training in vocalization, pronunciation, breath control, dynamics and blending for the amateur singer. An extended reading session in the afternoon will highlight his insights into conducting techniques and guest conductors are being sought.

Mr. Curtis is also director of choral activities at Emerson College and of the Concord, N.H., Chorale. He is a graduate of New England Conservatory and Temple University.

Ms. Stoltz will conduct a parallel workshop in training children to sing. She has introduced hundreds of children into careers in music. Ms. Stoltz is a frequent presenter at workshops on this subject, has published music for children's voices and is on staff at Boston Conservatory. She will explain the differences between adult and children's voice production and demonstrate how one must work with a child to produce the kind of tone that English boy choirs are famous for.

The workshops are open to people of all abilities. Beverages and snacks will be provided; bring a lunch.

CONSERVATIVE HIGH HOLIDAY SERVICES IN ANDOVER

Congregation Tifereth Anshai Sfard and Sons of Israel is pleased to announce that it has begun a program leading to the establishment of modern Conservative Judaism in Andover.

This process began in the late spring and several committees have been formed to search for a new home in the town of Andover. For over one hundred years this congregation has served the needs of Conservative Jewish Families in the greater Lawrence area. For more than a decade now, the Jewish population has been shifting out of the Lawrence area.

As a result, the membership of the congregation wishes to celebrate the high holidays of 5750 (1989) in Andover. Services will be held at the Doherty School on Punchard Avenue (facing the Town Common).

The members of the committees who have been working hard to see this plan through are very excited about what is being planned for the near future. Please share this wonderful enthusiasm and be our guest at High Holiday services this season.

OBITUARIES

William J. Dalton

Bill Dalton has been described as one of the finest athletes ever to come out of Greater Lawrence. A semi-professional baseball and hockey player for two decades, he refused a bid from the Boston Red Sox in 1922.

"My uncle turned the contract down because his mother felt playing professional ball was no way for a young man to make a living," said his nephew, Charles Dalton of Andover.

William J. Dalton, 87, of 70 Chestnut St. died after suffering a heart attack Sept. 6, 1989, at home.

Eugene Lovely, legendary Punchard High School coach for whom the Andover High School football field is named, called Mr. Dalton "the best, most natural athlete" he ever saw.

His nephew and namesake, former Andover Selectman William J. Dalton, said people frequently asked him if he were related to the great athlete. "I could never get my uncle to say much about his accomplishments. Most of what I knew about him—the fact that he batted .650 at Punchard High, for example—came from listening to others and reading old news clippings."

The widely known athlete worked in building maintenance at Phillips Academy from 1950 until he retired in 1967. Before that he worked in Lawrence's Wood Mill.

Born in Andover, Mr. Dalton was a 1920 graduate of Punchard High, where he starred in football and baseball. He also played hockey for the town hockey team.

Although he was primarily a second baseman in his favorite sport, he also played other positions, including pitcher. He was the running back on two undefeated Andover football teams that were led by his brother Charles at running back.

In 1921, Mr. Dalton earned a scholarship for a post graduate year at Phillips Academy where he continued to play varsity sports. The next year he was awarded a sports scholarship to Bates College in Maine where he studied for a short time.

During the 1920s and '30s, Mr. Dalton played semi-professional baseball, often for two leagues in the same season. He tried out for the Bruins the same year he was tapped by the Red Sox.

Judith Ann Beaton

Judith Ann (McKinnon) Beaton, 44, of Ventura, Calif., died Aug. 27, 1989, in Ventura.

Mrs. Beaton was a registered nurse for 24 years and last worked for Meditech Health Services in Ventura. She had previously worked at Boston Children's Hospital and Massachusetts General Hospital, both in Boston.

She was born in Lawrence and attended elementary and high school in Andover. She was a 1965 graduate of New England Deaconess Hospital School of Nursing.

Mrs. Beaton has lived in California for six years.

Members of her family include her husband, Cameron Beaton; daughters, Chandra and Alexandra Beaton, both of Ventura; her parents, Paul and Anna McKinnon of Sun City Center, Fla., and Center Harbor, N.H.; and brothers, Paul McKinnon of Andover, Donald McKinnon of Nashua, N.H., and Robert McKinnon of Derry, N.H.

Memorial services will be held Saturday, Sept. 16, at South Church, Andover.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Judith Anne (McKinnon) Beaton Memorial Fund, care of Andover Savings Bank, Andover, Mass. 01810.

Mr. Dalton continued to play hockey in local leagues until 1935. He also did a short stint as an amateur boxer during the 1920s.

Devoted to his family, Mr. Dalton visited his sister, Frances Dalton, every day for the past six years at Academy Manor Nursing Home.

Besides his sister, members of his family include four nephews, Charles F. Dalton, Jr. and William J. and Robert M. Dalton, all of Andover, and Jack Hathaway of Woodstown, N.H.

Funeral services were held in Christ Episcopal Church. Burial was in West Parish Cemetery.

Memorial contributions may be made to the Dalton Memorial Scholarship Fund, care of Attorney Charles F. Dalton, Jr., 1 Dundee Park, Andover, Mass. 01810.

He was active in several organizations, including Disabled American Veterans as department commander for the state of Maryland; World War I Veterans, as department commander for the state of Florida; National Association of Retired Federal Employees, as president of the Riviera Beach, Fla., chapter for five years and of the North Palm Beach chapter for one.

Mr. Bolker is survived by his wife of 66 years, Rebecca (Kisseleff) Bolker; daughter, Ruth Frishman, wife of Daniel Frishman of North Palm Beach and Andover; four grandchildren, Michael Frishman of Andover, Steven Frishman of Yerington, Nev., Laura Frishman of San Francisco, Calif., Robert Frishman of Lawrence; and four great grandchildren.

The family will receive friends at the Howard Funeral Home, 754 U.S. Highway 1, North Palm Beach, Fla. 33408 from 2 to 4 p.m. Friday, Sept. 15.

Memorial contributions may be made to the charity of one's choice.

Catherine J. Flynn

Catherine J. "Jodie" (Powell) Flynn, 67, of Colonial Drive, died Sept. 7, 1989, at New England Memorial Hospital in Stoneham.

Mrs. Flynn worked for 15 years as a clerk at the former Hillside Pharmacy in North Reading. During World War II she worked at the Boston Navy Yard and later was a clerk at the former Ryans Variety Store in North Reading.

Born in Boston, she lived in Andover for several years. She had lived most of her life in North Reading and was a 1939 graduate of North Reading Senior High School.

Members of her family include her husband, Lawrence B. Flynn; daughters, Carol A. Malloy of Woburn and Cathi Hayes of Anaheim, Calif.; a son, Michael L. Young Benjamin Carter and Daniel LeClerc may have saved their SHED, but the day care program is still without a building. The delays have forced the program into the Shawsheen School gymnasium.

SHED Awaits Building

Plumbing, Contractual Delays Stall Facility

By Lisa A. Boudreau

It was business as usual on the opening day of the Shawsheen Extended Day Care facility at Shawsheen School Monday. Well, almost.

Parents dropped off their children for before- and after-kindergarten care, but the program was still using using part of the Shawsheen School rather than the portable classroom administrators originally planned on.

SHED wanted to open its new doors last Thursday, but delays of various sorts affecting the portable classroom forced the program to push back the date to this Monday.

SHED staff and parents had anticipated the portable classroom, approved at April's town meeting, would be installed and operational by the start of school. But "business as usual" for SHED has been synonymous with red tape and delays for the past year.

SHED was informed last year by the School Committee, which controls the school building, that there wouldn't be any space for them as of September of this year. The Shawsheen School needs the extra room for its morning and afternoon kindergarten classes.

The controversial portable building was approved by the School Committee in March, providing certain conditions were met, and town meeting approved the $150,000 bond lent to SHED to buy the building.

One of the requirements set by the School Committee was a mutually agreeable contract for tenancy on the land between the committee and SHED. The delay in signing the contract and providing suitable landscaping to minimize the impact on abutters delayed ordering and arrival of the building.

Other delays ranging from the number of male and female disabled-accessible bathrooms and general staff facilities required by the state Board of Plumbing have also contributed to the delay, said Fred Jaeschke, Andover's director of municipal maintenance.

Following the required changes, the contractor, Pope Housing of Weymouth, took the uncompleted structure off the assembly line and made up for the lost order with other contracts. Once the new specifications were set, the contractor was required to fill the second orders before resuming work on the SHED building.

Planners Request More Information On Complex

By Frank Messina

Although a review of plans to build 18 apartments at High and Haverhill streets by the Planning Board uncovered no major flaws Tuesday night, enough questions were raised to delay a vote until Sept. 26.

The board asked developer Picwel Builders to come back with information on drainage and a possible reconfiguration of parking spaces to save mature trees on the site.

In the first public glimpse of the building plans, Picwel confirmed earlier indications that it intended to save as many trees as possible.

In original drawings, 16 of 24 of the stately maple, apple and cherry trees on the former dairy farm were to be cut down, said Gerald Welch of Picwel. The revised plans will necessitate removing just nine trees.

"We want to have as much screening between Andover Condominiums as we can," said Mr. Welch. "Obviously, it is to our advantage to do so."

But, looking at the parking lot layout, board member Hooks Johnston wondered if one or two more trees couldn't be spared. Site plans set aside 40 parking spaces, four more than required, and Mr. Johnston suggested a trade-off—cutting a parking spot in one corner and keeping the apple tree planted there.

The 1.47-acre parcel is the last buildable apartment-zoned lot in the area. The property is located between two other housing complexes that started as apartments but were converted to condominiums.

"If someday they want to turn condo," board member Russ Moran asked Town Physical Planner Steve Colyer, "what can we do about it?"

"Nothing," replied Mr. Colyer. A Planning Board ban on future condominium conversion would face a likely legal challenge, he said.

The Zoning Board of Appeals, to which Picwel is applying for a special permit for the project, might be more successful in imposing a no-conversion condition, said the town planner. Mr. Moran asked that the issue be turned over to town counsel.

The board member then turned to Mr. Welch and asked how

Selectmen Warn Restaurant For Alleged License Violations

By Frank Messina

Trader Rick's restaurant held onto its liquor license Monday night as the Board of Selectmen let the downtown nightspot off with a warning for two alleged after-hours violations involving alcohol.

Instead of suspending the restaurant's license, the selectmen will issue a letter of warning that stays on file for three years.

In two late-night checks this summer, Andover police say they found liquor served after hours, once to an underage employee.

But Monday night, Police Chief James Johnson told selectmen the alleged offenses were not major.

"I would hate to classify them as clear-cut violations, something that is more an infraction," said Mr. Johnson.

The police chief said the infractions, particularly a drink allegedly served to a 19-year-old bartender at the restaurant, were ambiguous, pointing out that state law allows underage employees to serve liquor.

The board took Mr. Johnson's recommendations, although Chairman Gail Ralston warned owner Gerald Cohen that "the granting of a license is a privilege."

Twice since last May, patrolling police units have seen movement inside the building after closing and suspected burglary activity.

The incident in May was prompted by a cleaning crew clearing the restaurant's ventilation system. Spotting the activity inside, several units responded at 1:20 a.m. and found drinks still on the bar and tables.

Sue Rogers, Priscilla Lucy and Betul Arin fix their corsages before heading off to meet their new students at West Middle School.

The Andover Police Department showed a strong presence in front of West Middle School last Thursday in an effort to slow down motorists who ignored the reduced speed limit displayed at either end of the school zone.

Michael Thomas and Mary Reilly hid their emotions so well that no one really knows just how much they enjoyed their first day of school.

These first-graders begin their first day of school at Shawsheen Elementary School looking a bit apprehensive about what lies ahead.

Only 179 More Days To Go

Townsmen photos by Matthew Sapienza

West Middle School students gather outside as the buses unload their cargo of kids. As the morning progressed and old friendships were rekindled, the ugly thought of another school year arriving soon changed to more pleasing thoughts of the fun yet to come.

Last Thursday when schools opened, the day started off much cooler than in recent weeks. Here, Susan Waldie zips up her son Scott's jacket while her daughter, Kasey, looks on. Scott was soon on his way to West Elementary.

Shawsheen School had plenty of helpful parents on hand to guide the children from the buses to their classrooms. The organized transition made the first school day of the year go along smoothly.

OPINION

Local Skirmishes In The War On Drugs

Andover, it would seem, is in the forefront on its attentiveness to the problem of substance and alcohol abuse.

While President George Bush was declaring war on drugs a week ago and addressing millions of students from the White House library on the matter this week via national television, Andover had already taken steps to attack the problem at the local level.

Last spring, Brenda O'Brien, director of health education for the public schools, applied for a three-year grant from the Northeast Regional Center for Drug-Free Schools and Communities, a group sponsored by the U.S. Department of Education.

With the funding approved, the initial year of the program is dedicated to extensive training of school and community professionals who will develop programs of prevention and early intervention to avoid substance and alcohol abuse.

While no rehabilitation techniques are involved, teachers do learn to recognize behavioral or appearance changes, and referral to counselors and health care professionals is commended.

Those who have become involved in the Andover program hear the same complaint from young people: that there is nothing to do, thus access to alcohol and drugs offers a recreational pursuit.

Despite the availability of drugs and alcohol, succumbing to the temptation seems a little weak by stating there's nothing to do. There are sufficient recreational and extracurricular activities for young people to participate in. Offering free time to public service, such as assisting senior citizens, volunteering at hospitals, etc., could well fill those free hours.

Andover High School has had programs dealing with drug abuse and continues to have student-sponsored substance abuse awareness programs.

Also active at the high school is Students Against Driving Drunk chapter, which is dedicated to problems stemming from alcohol abuse.

Additional training programs are planned over the next two years. The Andover Lions Club has donated $2,500 raised through a golf tournament to the schools and its Community Assistance, Support and Knowledge program.

All of this indicates that Andover is concerned about the problem at the local level, which in itself is a substantial step forward.

For years Andover had an earned reputation of publicly denying its problems. Typical rejoinder to any inquiry about something happening in the community would be denial of its existence.

These efforts by the schools, public officials and law enforcement agencies shows both a recognition of the possibility of problems here and that attention is being given to the matter.

It is all a very commendable effort.

DOWN THE YEARS

100 Years Ago — September 1889

The Brass Band will furnish music for the Order of United American Mechanics of Lawrence at the County parade in Salem, Sept. 23.

The Ministerial Conference of Merrimack River Baptist Association held their quarterly meeting on Tuesday last Monday.

The Essex Street sidewalk is being raised and graded, preparatory to the concreting which is to be done.

Prof. A.M. Downs has returned to assume his duties in Abbot Academy.

Post 99 G.A.R. will not participate as a body in the Essex County parade at Newburyport next Wednesday, though several members will probably attend.

Mr. John Eaton has just paid a number of his Andover patrons, who are among our largest investors, a dividend of 33 percent on a year's investment in Sioux City.

Last week's Advance contains an interesting article on "The Place of the Christian Academy in the Educational System of the West," from the pen of Dr. Bancroft.

The last game in the Merrimack Valley Association series will be played to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock, between Niotus and the Lawrence Canoe Club, on the grounds of the former.

The Mansion House, as usual at this time of the year when strangers are in town preparing for their children to attend the different schools, has been entirely inadequate to accommodate all, and rooms in the Seminary buildings have been used for the purpose.

John C. Foster of San Francisco, who was visiting in town, his former home, it seems had another purpose in view besides a mere vacation trip, for on last week Thursday in Brooklyn, N.Y., he led to the marriage altar, Miss Katherine V. Van Doren of Mons, Va., the ceremony being performed by Rev. W.C. Stitt. He will have the best wishes of his acquaintances in his California home, for which he left town Wednesday.

Mr. J.N. Cole, of the Andover Press, will occupy the G.L. Abbott residence on Chestnut St.

Miss Mary Graffam, daughter of G.H. Graffam, and a graduate of Punched last year, is teaching school at Templeton, Mass.

The Selectmen have their bi-monthly meeting this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

There is one thing Andover can boast of, and that is a well-equipped livery stable. There is hardly a carriage to be called for which "Uncle Samm" Bean cannot supply. For one horse, two, three or four, it makes no difference, he can furnish you with them. His latest addition is four small, stout horses, with banded manes and tails, commonly known as "cobs." Yesterday afternoon, by invitation of Foreman M. Hannon of Bean's stable, the writer, with other members of the press in town, was treated to a delightful drive behind these cobs. It was a very enjoyable ride, and greatly appreciated. These fine little horses will no doubt let very readily among Mr. Bean's numerous patrons, as will also his other handsome turnouts.

T.S. Holt and Mrs. Thompson Abbott have been enjoying a short time at the White Mountains.

Mrs. Andrew McTernan and son Malcolm have been visiting in Danvers and Salem.

Miss Mamie Nolan is taking her vacation this week.

Miss O.W. Neal has returned from a trip at Seal Harbor, Mt. Desert, Me.

E.H. Waldo, P.A. '84, Amherst '88, was in town this week calling upon friends.

Profs. Coy and Gile, with their families have returned from their summer vacations.

Bradford Academy opened Wednesday, with a full attendance of pupils. During the vacation everything has been put in order, and extensive repairs have been made in the culinary department.

75 Years Ago — September 1914

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Cunningham and children of Edgewood, Providence, R.I., have been visiting at the home of James Saunders on High street.

Mrs. Frank R. Shipman, who has been spending the summer months in Bethel, Maine, is visiting at the home of her mother, Mrs. Ripley, on Central street.

The marriage of Miss Esther Eysers of Methuen to Joseph Tennant of that town took place last week Wednesday in the Methodist church, Methuen. The bride is well known in town, her family having formerly resided here.

Monday evening a very pleasant musical was held at the home of Miss Alice Hinton. The affair was entirely an impromptu one, about sixteen being in the party, but the contributions were enthusiastically received by those present and a most enjoyable evening was spent.

Saturday morning a horse owned by J.P. West decided to create a little excitement in town and so became unmanageable and ran away down Central street. The wagon was overturned by F.H. Foster's residence and the driver was thrown out but escaped with slight bruises. The wagon however, was badly damaged.

The first meeting of the South Church Men's Club for the season of 1914-15 will be held next Friday evening. Rev. Markham W. Stackpole will give a talk about his experiences in the zone of the European war.

Miss Annie A. Lindsay has returned from her vacation and is ready for business at her rooms in the Carter Block. She also wishes to announce that she is agent for A.W. Moore's Blood and Nerve Remedy for Rheumatism.

The rehearsals of the South Church choir were resumed Thursday evening under the leadership of F.G. Moore, choirmaster, after the summer vacation. There was a very gratifying attendance, with good prospects for the winter's work.

The regular monthly meeting of the R.C.O.A. was held in the club rooms on Tuesday evening. Plans were discussed for the coming winter and arrangements made for a series of dances to be given in A.O.U.W. hall. A social hour with refreshments followed the business meeting.

THE PUBLIC FORUM

Next Victim Could Be A Person

To Town Manager Kenneth

Mahony:

Unfortunately, this letter is prompted by what the Crossen family considers a true tragedy. Right to the point, our pet cat was killed on Aug. 27.

Now, you may say, that happens every day. Maybe so, but not to us. Tippy was killed by one of the many drivers who feel at liberty to test the engine under the hood of their car. This happens all too often on Greenwood Road and it must stop now.

Let's not take the easy way out and ignore this letter. Let's not allow the next one killed on Greenwood Road be a child. For the record, I do have a young son, which means I will not let this concern fade away.

A few points of facts. There are no speed limit signs on Greenwood Road. There are also no signs referencing children. I must admit, however, there is one "blind driveway" sign; this is located close to the Route 133 intersection.

I am, therefore, requesting that you take the proper steps to have safety signs posed on Greenwood Road as soon as possible. I am also requesting that this matter be addressed to the proper people to have speed limit signs of 20-miles-per-hour posted. There is no need to go any faster.

Please don't forget Tippy. Thank you in advance for your help and cooperation. All of us in the Crossen household await your response knowing these requests and concerns will be routed to the proper people and acted upon. There is no reason this street, as well as others, cannot be made safer for a family pet walking his neighborhood, let alone people. I would truly like seeing some of my tax dollars go to work and directly affect this request.

Reminding Kids To Respect Library

To Parents Of Middle And High School Students:

As you may be aware, last spring we began experiencing difficulties with vandalism, some of which was intentional and some just plain carelessness, resulting from a greater number of students using the town library after school, evenings, weekends and, most especially, on early release days.

We are doing our best to maintain as open an atmosphere as possible so that all the elderly, adult, young adults and children can have equal access to service. When staff members have to spend all their time with one group, service to everybody else either stops or is delayed.

The trustees and staff are asking your cooperation and that of your children so that the library can remain a relaxed and welcoming place for all. We do not want to impose more stringent rules upon any of our patrons, but at the same time we cannot allow the excesses of the past to go unresolved.

Will you please convey to your students the importance of good behavior in the library and cooperation with the staff so that we can continue to provide the best service possible to everyone?

Thank you.

A Thankless Job

A Letter To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

As with most things, it's easy to take our law enforcement officers for granted in trouble-free times. And sometimes it's tempting to view them as adversaries when you're trying to make a 9 a.m. appointment in Boston, for example, and it's 8:30 a.m. when you spot the flashing blue lights in your rearview mirror just a few feet from the exit to 93 South.

Without going into detail, I would like to publicly acknowledge and thank the Andover police for their recent (and ongoing) efforts to ensure the safety of my family and that of my neighbors. The patient, timely and efficient way in which they have responded to our calls for help is commendable. Thank you again, officers, for doing a thankless job so well.

Tribute To A Pianist

To The Editor Of The TOWNSMAN:

On Sunday, Aug. 27, Olga Sjosstrom, an Andover resident for many years, died at age 93 in the home of a Lowell relative. Some of her friends, even those who, until the end, were personally and lovingly involved in her life, learned of her passing only through the brief and necessarily impersonal medium of area newspaper obituaries.

And so, let us now praise not-so-famous women who deserved richer rewards out of life than fate saw fit to bestow. Such a one was Olga. When her family fortunes failed in the Depression '30s, Olga, a gifted pianist who studied in Paris with Nadia Boulanger, a pupil of Franz Liszt, abandoned a career as a concert pianist to care for an ailing parent. When that parent died, Olga, alone and in reduced circumstances, turned to teaching.

Can I ever forget the day I first saw her? Less than 5 feet of feisty resolution in sturdy walking shoes and argyle knee socks, her trademark "accessories," she came trudging up the lawn at 267 South Main St. to ask my mother if perhaps there were children in the house who would like to study piano.

Mother was never one to open her heart and hearth to every dropin, but she succumbed to Olga on the spot. They remained friends and allies till my mother's death in 1976.

As a result of that first encounter, one of my younger brothers and a sister became Olga's early pupils. Scores of area youngsters—and their parents, too, on occasion—followed suit, practicing scales and mastering a varied piano repertoire according to their individual abilities in Olga's succession of small, spare-apartment studios. She was an inspirational teacher who never patronized her pupils or allowed invidious comparisons between the honest plodder and the precocious youngster reaching for musical distinction.

Piano sorcery wasn't her only gift. Over the years, because of the extraordinary person she was, she accumulated a host of devoted apostle-friends, not necessarily pupils or even lovers of music. Though often in the difficult last years of near-blindness and diminishing strength, she never asked for favors or even help, love, companionship and all sorts of material largess flowed her way spontaneously.

I've cried my tears for my old friend of 50 years. It's time now to look ahead. I'm establishing a memorial fund in Olga's name at an area bank. Its purpose: to provide scholarship assistance to a young Merrimack Valley resident, a high school senior of promise, so that he or she can pursue the study of classical piano at a reputable music school in this country or abroad.

I'm hoping that other Olga partisans will, if able, join with me in this loving endeavor by contacting Andover Bank at 61 Main St.

For Those Of Us Who Are Older

By Dorothy M. Winn

Sept. 17 through 23 is National Adult Day Care Week. The Andover Adult Day Care Program will celebrate its fifth anniversary with an open house and special events. More than 100 people and their families have benefited from the support provided through the program.

Adult day care is a daytime program of activity, socialization, health monitoring and support for older people and their families. Older people who would be alone during the day enjoy the companionship of their peers and a full day of planned activity and interaction.

The Andover Adult Day Care program is the only program of its kind in the Merrimack Valley to integrate activities of an adult day program and active Senior Center. Participants may take part in Senior Center activities or stay with the planned day care program. This integration of well and frail elders has proven especially helpful for older spouses and caregivers. Many spouses faced with the declining health of a loved one are guilt-ridden when they must seek alternative support and services to care for their spouses.

The program offers the opportunity for spouses to enjoy lunch together at the center, or one spouse can take a class or do shopping without worrying about the other being alone.

The Andover program is staffed with a full-time registered nurse and program coordinator. The Senior Center is open Monday through Friday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Drop by next week to visit and join the celebration of the program's fifth anniversary and National Adult Day Care Week.

Registration for fall classes at the Senior Center is underway. Classes include needleart, easy exercise, calligraphy, line dancing and oil painting. Space is limited, so register by Friday, Sept. 22. A complete list of all classes and activities is available at the center.

Meehan Tours has put together a fall foliage trip to the White Mountains of New Hampshire for Tuesday, Oct. 3. Enjoy fall foliage, a scenic train ride, a hobo-style luncheon complete with kerchief and bindle stick, gondola ride and more. Complete details are available at the Senior Center.

The outlet shopping trips are always a pre-holiday favorite. A trip to Olde Shrewsbury Village in search of bargains at the Christmas Tree Shop, Johnny Appleseed, Aileen, American Tourister, Manhattan and other outlet stores is he felt about the potential restriction.

"That would be the worst recommendation I could think of," the developer said.

Margaret Devlin of 1 Longwood Drive, expressed concern over traffic and drainage issues.

Accidents on Haverhill and High streets have increased in recent years, she said, questioning what impact more development would have.

Saying her neighbors have experienced flooding, Ms. Devlin asked whether rain flowing from the proposed apartment parking lot into a nearby brook would create additional problems.

An engineer from Dana Perkins and Associates said the brook is a "well-defined channel" and that her building next door is 8 feet higher than the stream.

The board indicated it would vote on the site plan at its Sept. 26 meeting.

SHED Building

The building is expected to arrive Sept. 21 or 22, said Mr. Jaeschke, and will most likely be installed the following week.

"There still will be a lot of outside work left to be done," he said.

The delays have been a nuisance, but arrangements to use the Shawsheen gymnasium were made during the interim, said SHED administrator Sidney Bialo. The opening day was delayed because the program needed to get approval from the State Office for Children to operate in the gymnasium, along with other building and fire code inspection approvals, she said.

"I was confident we would work out a reasonable solution," said Ms. Bialow. "This really doesn't disrupt all that much."

Jane Noshub, mother of 5-year old Carolyn, who participates in the SHED program, said she is pleased with the alternate arrangements.

"It's not the walls or the physical setting that makes the SHED program what it is. It's what the team of people bring to it that makes the program as wonderful it is," said Mrs. Noshub.

SPORTING LIFE

Swim Team Is One Of Andover High's Best-Kept Secrets

By Rick Harrison

Junior Kristen Hubbell and senior Tri-Capts. Erika Suduiko, Tracey Pool and Mia Kearins are ready to lead one of Andover High's best-kept athletic secrets, the highly-successful girls' varsity swim team, to another outstanding season.

Without much fanfare the Lady Warrior natators have produced five Merrimack Valley Conference championships, a 28-meet win streak, a second-place finish in the Eastern Massachusetts North Sectionals and eight consecutive winning seasons since current coach Patty Barrett took the reins.

Four of the league titles came successively from 1982-'85, the fifth was in '87, and the runnerup showing in the Sectionals was also in '87.

AHS has actually had winning swim teams since the sport was initiated at the school. Ms. Barrett competing for several of the earlier ones (for coaches Carolyn and Ed Dowd) before perpetuating the tradition admirably.

Last year Andover placed third in the MVC, behind twin powerhouses Lowell and Nashua, with a fine 7-2 dual meet record. The Warriors also finished among the top 10 teams in both the North Sectionals and the All-State Meet.

Gone from that crew are six key swimmers: Pam Boucher, Lisa Fox, Laura Ghirardini, Amy VanAken, Karen Pederson and Kate Robb.

Boucher, Fox and Pederson ended up together at Ithaca College, while Ghirardini is attending Springfield College from where coach Barrett graduated and also swam the sprint free-

Heel pain should be treated NOW to avoid further injury!

Treatment is easier than you might think.

Your heel hurts. Throbs. You may feel a stretching or tearing sensation. But you don't have the time or energy to find the right doctor to look at it.

The heel pain is actually caused by problems with a ligament on the bottom of your foot. Undue strain and stress on the ligament causes it to begin to pull away from the heel bone. The best solution is to 1) Administer medications to reduce the inflammation and 2) To use arch supports to strengthen the foot and reduce stress and strain. This eliminates pain and prevents further damage. We have found that only one percent of our heel pain cases really need to be treated surgically.

When your feet hurt, come to Northeast Podiatric.

style and breaststroke events.

Conference All-Stars

Kristen Hubbell and Erika Suduiko finished 1-2 last fall in the Conference Meet 50 freestyle, and both are expected to give Andover strength in both the freestyle sprints and backstroke. Suduiko will also compete in the individual medley.

Tracey Pool, the girl with the perfect name for a swim star, is a freestyle and breaststroke performer.

Mia Kearins heads a quartet of veteran divers that also includes sophomore sister Kasie Kearins and other sophomores Jill Ippolito and Sarah Faraci.

The Lady Warriors have 14 letterwinners returning altogether, the others and their specialties being sophomore Michelle McCarthy (breaststroke, butterfly, distance freestyle), senior Bryn McGovern (IM, breaststroke, freestyle), senior Monica Davis (breaststroke), junior Allyson Bates (backstroke), sophomore Katie Lamanna (distance freestyle), junior Eliza Tilghman (freestyle) and sophomore Liz Smith (butterfly, backstroke).

Newcomers to the varsity who have been impressive in pre-season workouts are freshman Christine DerAnaian (freestyle sprints, butterfly), freshman Molly Grassis (freestyle), freshman divers Anne Milmoie and Amanda Schaake, freshman Courtney Chalfin (butterfly) and junior Kate Mann (butterfly).

Hubbell, Suduiko, Pool and McCarthy will also be mainstays on the 200-yard medley and 400 freestyle relays.

"We appear to be strong in the sprint freestyle, breaststroke, backstroke and diving," said Coach Barrett. "And we also have a lot of versatile swimmers."

"The butterfly events are where we need the most work because most of our flyers are doing it competitively for the first time."

Schedule

Andover opens the season tomorrow afternoon in the toughest way possible, hosting a Lowell team that is being touted as a possible state champion this year.

The meet begins at 3:30 p.m. at the Greater Lawrence Technical School pool.

Runners Up Against Stiff Competition

By Rick Harrison

First-year head Coach Leo Lafond knows bucking heads with the likes of the Chelmsford High boys and Lowell High girls will be anything but easy, but he also feels the Andover High boys' and girls' cross country teams can hold their own with everyone except the aforementioned potential state champions.

The turnout of 40 candidates was the best in several years, although several talented runners, including Nathan Sullivan, Glenn Harrison and Diane Hinchey, graduated from last fall's 2-5-0 boys' team and 3-4-0 girls' crew.

Hinchey, who won several races for the AHS girls last season, is now attending Brown University in Providence, R.I., and running cross country for the Bruins.

Returning on the boys' side are varsity veterans and senior Tri-Capt. Jon Bicknell, Scott O'Leary and Mike Kelly, along with senior Dana Orlando.

Top prospects elevated from the junior varsity team are juniors Matt Orlando, Bryan Smith, Tim Parker, Andy Brent and Ben Allard.

The girls' nucleus consists of senior Co-Capt. Katie Boness and Michelle Toth, while sophomore Heather McNamara also has some varsity experience.

"I really think we're going to be respectable," said Lafond. "We had a good overall turnout, an excellent group of freshmen and I feel we can be competitive with everyone."

'We're in a brutally tough league. I don't think you'll find two much better teams than the Chelmsford boys' and Lowell girls.'

Cross Country Coach Leo Lafond

"Jon Bicknell, won two or three races last year, may be the top individual runner in the Merrimack Valley Conference this fall.

"We ran a practice meet against Acton-Boxboro (coached by former Andover assistant Rich Leonard) and did surprisingly well.

"He thinks his girls' team will be quite strong this season, and we beat them by about 10 points," said Lafond. "Our boys' team also crushed Acton."

The Golden Warriors had a second practice meet with North Andover yesterday and open next Wednesday with a tri-meet against Haverhill and host Dracut.

"We're in a brutally tough league," noted Lafond. "I don't think you'll find two much better teams than the Chelmsford boys' and Lowell girls'."

Lafond, an assistant at AHS last fall, succeeds longtime Andover varsity cross country Coach Gerry Grasso.

Grasso, the popular long distance runner and triathlete, took a bad tumble at the high school last year and is still on the mend from that accident. His return to teaching and/or coaching remains on a week-to-week basis.

Hockey Association To Rerun House League

This year the Andover Hockey Association will reintroduce a "house league" for youth hockey. The program will run on an abbreviated schedule from the travel teams to allow more children to participate. Any interested child age 6 through 14 should contact Rich Roycroft.

Football Team Kicks Off Season Tomorrow

The Andover High football team will have its work cut out tomorrow night, Sept. 15, when the Golden Warriors open the 1989 season against pre-season Merrimack Valley Conference favorite Chelmsford.

Kickoff at Lovely Field is 7 p.m.

Coach Dick Collins' squad will be trying to bounce back from a 4-5-1 season, while Chelmsford was 9-1-0 last fall and came within a last-period 19-14 loss to Dracut of being undefeated and Super Bowl-bound.

The Lions launched last year's schedule with a 35-0 romp over Andover.

The Golden Warriors will reveal this year's starting quarterback tomorrow evening. The three-way battle for that position has been one of the highlights of the pre-season.

Delcheccolo Joins Bentley

Mark Delcheccolo of Andover is a returning letterman on the Bentley College football team.

The 5-foot 10-inch 165-pound junior is a defensive back for the Bentley Falcons.

Field Hockey Coach On Lookout For Goalscorers

By Rick Harrison

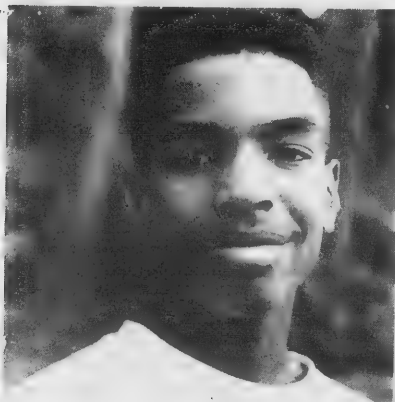

The search for several consistent goalscorers occupied much of the Andover High School varsity field hockey team's pre-season time.

"Our biggest concern the last few years has been trying to find someone who could put the ball in the net," said fourth-year coach Sandy Lunt.

"There are no pre-high school programs in this sport, so girls are coming to us with virtually no field hockey experience. It's just something we have to live with," said Lunt.

The Lady Warriors graduated six key players from last year, including goaltender Lee Dziadosz, top scorer Amy Mencis, Jeannine Meckel, Julie Enos, Lisa Sanchez and Joanna Moutzourogeorges.

However, among the encouraging turnout of 65 candidates were six returnees

Reiji Hayes

Soccer Standout Back From Camp

Reiji Hayes, 14, of 5 Clark Road, was chosen this summer to attend the Region I soccer camp, held for the top 35 players from Virginia to Maine.

Reiji became the first Andover male player to be selected and has represented the Massachusetts' team for the past two years.

He was vice president of West Middle school last year, as well as a West scholar. Reiji is a ninth-grader at Phillips Academy.

who started all or portions of last season.

This solid nucleus consists of senior midfielder and Co-Capt. Lisa Campbell, senior defender and Co-Capt. Andrea Napolitano, senior defender Amy Heislein, junior forward/midfielder Jen Recesso, junior defender Gill Kiley and junior forward Jen Colangeli.

Additional letterwinners who are back include senior goaltender Sarah Little, senior forwards Kelly Moynihan, Carolyn Oskar and Debbie Wu, and sophomore forward Holly Clark.

A pair of promising sophomores up from the freshman squad are defender Abby Dalton and midfielder/forward Grace Perry.

"We're hoping that Jen Recesso, Lisa Campbell, Jen Colangeli and Holly Clark will be the scorers we need," said Lunt. "We have a solid 11 and quite a few veterans. I'm optimistic and encouraged about the season."

Coach Lunt played field hockey at Chelmsford High and the University of Massachusetts at Amherst before knee problems cut her athletic career short.

In the early 1980s she coached basketball and track in Rome, Italy and field hockey in Boulder, Colo.

The Lady Warriors scrimmaged Masconomet Regional, Georgetown, Manchester and North Andover.

The only non-league game will be on Monday, Oct. 2, against North Andover, giving AHS a 17-game schedule.

Lunt expects the usual Wilmington, Chelmsford and Tyngsboro to be tough in the Merrimack Valley Conference.

Andover opened play earlier this week at Tyngsboro and host Methuen this afternoon at 3:30 in their home opener.

Sports Benefit Slated For Sunday

There is still time to register for the Sports for Life Festival '89, set for Sunday, Sept. 17. The fund-raiser for Holy Family Hospital's regional cancer management services center includes a five-mile walk, 20-mile bike ride or a lap swim. Participants may choose one or more event.

"The Sports for Life Festival '89 offers something for people of all ages and athletic abilities," said attorney Marsha Elias, co-chairman of the planning committee. "It is an excellent opportunity for people to have fun while supporting a local cause."

For registration information, contact the Holy Family Hospital Foundation, 70 East St., Methuen.

BrookRidge Series On Addictions Continues Sunday

BrookRidge Community Church will continue its series, "Addictions, All Of Us Anonymous," on Sunday, Sept. 17, at 10:30 a.m.

"All of us are addicts," said church Pastor Bill Watson. "The same processes that are responsible for addiction to alcohol, narcotics and gambling are also responsible for addictions to such things as ideas, work, relationships, power, moods and fantasies. Our addictions are our own worst enemy."

"Through the drama, music and message of the service, we will not only provide a basis for understanding the nature of our predicament, but also a hope for freedom and change."

This Sunday's play is called The Brotherhood and is about a fictional meeting of the International Order of the Brotherhood of Fellow Workaholics. Their motto is "Work Harder, Die Younger and Leave a Haggard Looking Corpse."

BrookRidge is an interdenominational church that meets at West Elementary School on Beacon Street on Sundays at 10:30 a.m. Promiseland, a Sunday School for children through sixth grade, is offered. A nursery is available for infants.

50 Years Ago — September 1939

There are 34 fewer school pupils in Andover this year than there were last, according to the registration statistics compiled Monday when the grammar grades opened. The public school attendance went down 53 while the Parochial school went up 19.

Of the local 1786 school children, the parochial school is absorbing 263 of which 11 come from the now closed North school. The total public school enrollment is 1523.

The figures by schools compared with last year's: Pynchard down 11 to 388; Junior High down 35 to 433; Central Grade schools down 18 to 322; Shawsheen school up 19 to 185; Bradlee down 5 to 73; Indian Ridge up 8 to 72; West Center up 3 to 50; St. Augustine's up 19 to 263.

The figures were changed upward slightly Tuesday when 11 children whose sixth birthday comes between next January and March first passed the entrance examination.

A petition for a 25% reduction in valuation for the North District because of the closing of the North school was turned down by the Board of Assessors at their meeting Monday night. The assessors felt that the present valuation is fair.

At the request of the four delegates who presented the petition the selectmen asked the Town Counsel Arthur Sweeney about the legality of the school closing in view of the town meeting vote appropriating $500 for keeping it open. Attorney Sweeney sustained the school committee, saying they were within their legal rights closing the school.

The Andover Male Choir held its first rehearsal of the season in the rooms in the bank building last Tuesday night, at which time J. Everett Collins, in behalf of the club, presented a zipper bag to William McCready. Mr. McCready is leaving town to take up his duties as Professor of mathematics at Bucknell University in Pennsylvania.

Rain did not prevent the choir from giving a commendable concert with the Havehill Men's Singing Club at the Topsfield Fair, Sunday afternoon. Everyone moved inside, and the program went on as planned.

The annual get-together meeting of the Choir will be held next Tuesday night at the rooms. Members will render vocal and instrumental selections as part of the entertainment.

The Board of Public Works has begun to blow out every hydrant in the Andover water system in order to clean out the pipes. An attempt was made to do this some years ago but funds ran out when the experiment got as far as Lincoln street from Rumors that the North School closing is responsible for the school superintendent's suggestion that another school bus may have to be put into operation shortly were dispelled yesterday when Mr. Sanborn stated that this is not so and that a bus if put on would probably not cost a great deal if any more to the town than the present transportation arrangement.

Several streets have been refinished by the Board of Public Works in the past few weeks, while others are now in the process. Whittier street and Maple avenue have been widened, and the gravel shoulders of Chestnut street been given two coats of pebble stone and tar. Yesterday Punchard avenue was resurfaced.

Today work was started on giving a hard surface to Yale street in Shawsheen Heights. Sections of Dartmouth street and Princeton street will also be done.

The curbing for High street near Flint Circle has arrived, and it will be in shortly.

The W.P.A. has been installing a drain near 67 Summer street. It will also widen and gravel Reservation road.

Miss Mildred Forsythe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Forsythe of Bartlett street, will attend McIntosh school in Lawrence this fall.

A new road was cut through the addition to St. Augustine's cemetery yesterday as one of the final steps in the new development. Rev. Thomas B. Austin, pastor, who has been in active charge of the work, part of which was done by volunteer workers, states that aside from seeding, etc., very little remains to be done.

On Monday work will start on the final improvement of the interior of the church. A new rubberized tile floor is to be laid in order to bring the appearance of the floor up to the standard set by the rest of the newly-painted church.

25 Years Ago — September 1964

Abrupt and unseasonal changes in the weather, not chemical refuse, killed Shawsheen river fish in large numbers last July.

This is the conclusion reached by the State Department of Health in a report presented last Tuesday to the Town Manager.

In answer to complaints from Ballardvale residents that Reichhold Chemical Co. is polluting the river, the department took samplings some weeks ago.

According to their findings, reported to a meeting attended by two state representatives, local officials and residents, weat uction in the water's supply of oxygen, can be blamed for the mid-summer death of Shawsheen fish. Residents had considered this incident proof that the water was polluted.

The School committee, with one dissenting vote, gave approval Tuesday to the general scope of plans of the proposed $4.8 million high school.

At the same time it asked school administrators to comb the plans for areas of possible saving, in effect asking them to make a priority list to have on hand should the town balk at raising the full price of the building offered by the school Building committee.

Dissenting altogether was Committeemember William Doherty who called the SBC's plan "academically and economically wrong." He favors for example, a larger school (as does the entire committee) than the 1,200 building proposed, he is for a full-size auditorium and for bleachers to go with the football field.

The School building committee will hold its first information session on plans for the new $4.8 million senior high school Sept. 30 at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of the present High school.

The Board of Selectmen, having already reversed its decision on extension of sewer lines to the site for an IRS installation, will be asked to take a second look at its rejection Monday of an extension which would permit a tie-in for the Andover Animal Hospital on Lowell st.

"New information" indicating that layout of a line for the IRS could also benefit Rolling Green Motor Inn, a heavy taxpayer, led the Board to re-think its position on the use of surplus Accelerated Sewer Program funds.

Subsequent discovery that late estimates on the project savings would permit the IRS line and more, brought a quick decision in looking into further extensions in the Lincoln st. area.

10 Years Ago — September 1979

School committeemen received their liaison assignments Tuesday night.

Chairman Elaine Viehmann will be working with Anover High and the 766 Advisory Committee, while Alan Doerr will be working with Bancroft and Doherty schools; John Easton, Sanborn and Shawsheen; Don Robb, South and West Jr. High and Joe Finn, West Elementary and East Jr. High.

The school committee, remaining true to history, Tuesday night refused a request by William E. Cohen to pay transportation costs for his two youngsters to out-of-town schools.

Chairman Elaine Viehmann said they had a letter from the school attorney interpreting Chapter 76 to mean that it is not necessary to pay, since they do not pay for the transportation to other children outside the town of Andover.

She said it has been the committee's policy in the past not to fund such students, and that "we intend to continue that policy."

Wesley E. Whitney, 6 Partridge Hill Road, was appointed Monday night to the zoning board of appeals by selectmen.

Whitney had been serving on the board as an associate member and was made a regular member to replace Grover Nix who did not seek reappointment. Whitney's term started immediately and will run to June 30, 1982.

King's Subs

Owners Steve and George Haginicolos, assisted by their mother, Niki offer an extensive menu consisting of forty different subs and thirteen pizza choices. D.P.U. 89-163

Petition of New England Power Company for authority to construct, maintain, and operate a proposed 0.5 mile, 115 kilovolt tap facility in the Town of Andover pursuant to General Laws Chapter 164, Section 72.

D.P.U. 89-164

Petition of New England Power Company for authority to construct, maintain, and operate a proposed 5.2 mile, 115 kilovolt transmission line in the Towns of Andover and Tewksbury and the City of Lawrence pursuant to General Laws Chapter 164, Section 72.

D.P.U. 89-165

Petition of New England Power Company for exemption by the Department of Public Utilities from the operation of the zoning bylaw of the Town of Andover with respect to a proposed 0.5 mile 115 kilovolt tap facility in the Town of Andover pursuant to General Laws Chapter 40A, Section 3.

D.P.U. 89-166

Petition of New England Power Company for exemption by the Department of Public Utilities from the operation of the zoning bylaw of the Town of Andover with respect to the construction, maintenance, and operation of a second 115/34.5/13.8 kilovolt transformer in the Town of Andover pursuant to the General Laws Chapter 40A, Section 3.

New England Power Company ("NEPCO") has petitioned the Department of Public Utilities ("DPU") and the Energy Facilities Siting Council ("EFSC") for approval to construct, maintain and operate a 115 kilovolt transmission line of approximately 5.2 miles in length and a 115 kilovolt tap connected to the new line of approximately 0.5 miles in length to provide the independent 115 kilovolt supply required for two additional transformers, one at the South Broadway substation and one at the West Andover substation.

PRIMARY ROUTE

The primary route for the proposed electric transmission line would parallel NEPCO's existing Tewksbury-Lawrence transmission line its entire length. The proposed route begins at a connection with NEPCO's existing transmission line near Andover Street in the Town of Tewksbury. The proposed transmission line route continues in a north-northeasterly direction along the existing right-of-way for approximately 5.2 miles through portions of the Towns of Tewksbury and Andover, past the existing connection with the West Andover tap facilities, to its terminus in the City of Lawrence, where it connects with NEPCO's South Broadway substation.

The proposed 0.5 mile tap route would parallel NEPCO's existing West Andover tap facilities for its entire length. The proposed tap route begins at the existing connection between the Tewksbury-Dracut transmission line and the West Andover tap facilities in the Town of Andover. The proposed tap continues for approximately one-half mile along the existing West Andover tap facilities' right-of-way in a northerly direction, to its terminus, where it connects with NEPCO's existing West Andover substation off Webster Street in Andover.

ALTERNATE ROUTE

The 5.5 mile alternate route would begin at a connection with NEPCO's existing 115 kilovolt transmission line tap at Methuen Junction, near the US 93/State Route 213 interchange in the Town of Methuen. The proposed alternate route continues in a southeasterly direction across the Nevins Wildlife Area to the Boston and Maine railroad. The proposed alternate route continues in a southerly direction parallel to the Boston and Maine Railroad right-of-way into the City of Lawrence to NEPCO's South Broadway substation. From this point, the proposed alternate route runs in a westerly direction to parallel NEPCO's existing Tewksbury-Lawrence transmission line. The proposed alternate route continues into the Town of Andover to the existing connection between the Tewksbury-Lawrence transmission line and the West Andover tap facilities. The proposed 0.5 mile tap route begins at this connection and continues in a northerly direction parallel to NEPCO's existing West Andover tap facilities to its terminus at NEPCO's West Andover substation.

Approximately 3.3 miles of this route in Methuen and Lawrence would be unique to the alternate route and approximately 2.2 miles in Lawrence and Andover would be common to both the preferred and alternate routes. The 0.5 mile 115 kilovolt tap will be the same on either route.

NOTICE OF HEARING

The DPU will review the proposed facilities on the primary route to determine: (1) whether these facilities are necessary and will serve the public convenience and be consistent with the public interest (General Laws, Chapter 164, Section 72), and (2) that the present or proposed use of the land or structure is reasonably necessary for the convenience or welfare of the public (General Laws, Chapter 40A, Section 3).

The EFSC will review the filing of NEPCO to determine whether the proposed electric transmission line and tap are necessary to provide electric transmission service with a minimum impact on the environment at the lowest possible cost. The Siting Council has the authority to render a decision approving the primary route or the alternate route, or approving one of these routes subject to conditions, or approving portions of these routes in part, or rejecting the primary route and alternate route.

Copies of the NEPCO petitions are available for public inspection at the EFSC's offices, at the DPU's offices, at the Andover, Methuen, and Tewksbury Town Halls, the Lawrence City Hall, the Andover Public Library, the Methuen Public Library, the Tewksbury Public Library, and the Lawrence Public Library. Any person interested in intervening as a party or participating as an interested person in this proceeding before the EFSC must file a written petition with the EFSC's Hearing Officer on or before October 20, 1989. Pursuant to Title 220, Section 1.03 and 1.05 of the Code of Massachusetts Regulations, any person interested in intervening as a party in this proceeding before the DPU must file a written petition for leave to intervene in accordance with the Code of Massachusetts Regulations. Petitions for leave to intervene must be filed at least seven days before the public hearing.

New England Nurseries & Garden Centers

New England Nurseries is fully stocked for fall planting. There is a large selection of hardy mums to plant now for fall color and bulbs for color next spring. Fall is a good time for landscaping with new shrubs and trees because of the moderate temperature. Now is the time to take advantage of their annual stock reduction sale. Fertilizers, bone meal and Wilt Pruf (which guards against moisture loss year round, especially important in winter) are available to maintain landscaping throughout the winter.

This is also the time to bring house plants indoors, spray for bugs and repot. New England Nurseries offers repotting service. There is a large selection of house plants to brighten the home during the winter months available in four to ten inch pots.

New England Nurseries and Garden Centers is fully stocked with fall decorating supplies and ideas. Many attractive decorative pieces on display may be purchased or the Customer may choose to do-it-him/herself and purchase supplies from their craft shop. This shop contains all materials needed to create holiday projects.

In addition to being a full service nursery, New England Nurseries and Garden Centers is a full service florist.

Soon after Thanksgiving, Christmas trees from Maine and Nova Scotia will be arriving. A large selection of custom made wreaths and decorative roping will also be available. They carry ornaments and gift items for the holiday season. Popular gift items are centerpieces, bird feeders, balloons, baskets and ceramic containers.

Major credit cards are accepted. For their customers' convenience, they have extended hours during the holiday season. The retail store is located at 592 Merrimack Ave., Route 110, Dracut, and the wholesale and retail yard is at 16 Concord Rd. in Bedford, Mass. Telephone: 458-6201 R.C. Bernal

Police Arrest Burglary, Assault Suspect In Town

By Lisa A. Boudreau

A 20-year-old Andover man was arrested Monday night for alleged burglary and assault at a woman's 6 Cherokee Circle home on July 7.

David A. Ainscow of 59 Lovejoy Road was arraigned Tuesday morning in Lawrence District Court with the assault and unrelated charges on two counts of rape and assault of a female minor and possession of illegal martial arts weapons.

The Northern Essex Community College student's alleged involvement in the second case was discovered during the investigation of the July 7 burglary, said the investigating Andover police officers, Detectives Don Pattullo and David Grant.

Mr. Ainscow allegedly masked himself, entered the Andover woman's one-floor home through a window and assaulted her in her bed. A struggle ensued, and she beat him off; the burglar then ran down the home's hallway and exited through the same window he entered, said Detective Pattullo.

During the course of the investigation, the detectives said they became aware of their suspect's possible involvement in the rape and assault case. Police said Mr. Ainscow forced the girl to pose nude in pornographic visual material. The girl, who is under 16, was involved in a boyfriend-girlfriend relationship with the defendant, said Lt. John Houlihan.

"We knew we had someone out there that was very dangerous," said Detective Grant.

On Sept. 11, the detectives got a search warrant to enter Mr. Ainscow's residence, his parents' home at 59 Lovejoy Road. There they found assorted martial arts weapons and knives. Among the confiscated items are various pairs of assorted-sized nunchakus; ninja claws, an open glove with claws; throwing stars; a homemade cross bow; and knives. He was arrested at his parents' home that night.

Mr. Ainscow was arraigned and released on $5,000 cash bail.

However, the incident was regarded as minor, said Chief Johnson, and no punitive action was taken.

On July 16, police officers again noticed movement in the building after closing. Shortly after 3 a.m., investigating police discovered a 23-year-old assistant manager and a 19-year-old bartender in the restaurant, both with drinks in front of them.

In his defense, Mr. Cohen said the only people involved in both incidents were employees. Liquor was "certainly not being sold" to the public, he added.

But selectmen were also bothered that the restaurant hadn't properly notified them of a change in managers.

"I'm concerned that there hasn't been an effort here" to comply with town bylaws, said Selectman Gerald Silverman.

"When we see a couple of violations," said Selectman Barenboim, "and the manager has left four months ago...we have to sit back and ask if these people are serious about having a liquor license in town."

The Andover attorney said he has taken steps to prevent future problems, including the purchase of a machine to videotape liquor identification. He also promised to clear tables promptly at 1 a.m. and notify police of any after-hours cleaning activities.

"We take this as a lesson," said Mr. Cohen, "and I think we have learned it well."
